Ananias' Theological Thoughts

Me and My Big Guy have new neighbors!

No one moved into the apartment above us. But two robins built a nest above our back door. My Big Guy says because the lady doesn't leave the nest and the guy watches us when we come in and out, they probably have laid some eggs in the nest.

He has told me not to bark or growl at them, even to say "Hi!" or "How are you?" because they are nervous about starting their family.

I worried about them and prayed for them with the big storms we had. I get scared by the thunder, and I'm inside. I was afraid for them being out there in all that rain and wind. But the next morning, the lady, or momma was in the nest, and the daddy was keeping an eye on us.

Starting anything new can be really scary. I'm gonna keep praying for the robins and will let you know how they are doing. Can you pray for new families and for people doing new things and having change in their lives?

By the way, My Big Guy asked me to include a little note about when the parents change in the coming few weeks. I think it's cool that you change the colors to mark time in the church and I'll write about it, because I've chewed on, I mean, read My Big Guy's books on the church calendar.

Licks and Love,
Ananias Bulldogge Campbell

DOESN'T THE
HOLY SPIRIT EVER GET TIRED OF
TALKING ABOUT JESUS?

THE HOLY SPIRIT
LOVES JESUS.

DO YOU EVER GET TIRED
OF TALKING ABOUT
SOMEONE YOU LOVE?

NO, BUT I THINK
